JOIN THE GLOBAL LEADER IN LOGISTICS REAL ESTATE

Student Employees and Graduates for Project Management, Leasing, and Property Management in Dusseldorf

Prologis, Inc. is the global leader in logistics real estate with a focus on high-barrier, fast-growing markets. We lease modern distribution facilities to a diverse base of customers across two major categories: business-to-business and retail / online fulfilment. Due to our growing portfolio, we are always looking for student employees and graduates to support our project management, leasing, and property management teams in their daily work. You will receive high quality supervision and mentoring to help you become a logistics real estate expert. Your workspace will be in our office in Dusseldorf.

Main Tasks and Responsibilities

- Diverse and varied tasks in project management, leasing or property management of an internationally active company in the real estate sector and thus a comprehensive insight into the workflow of logistics properties
- Support of project managers, leasing officers, and property managers in the preparation of commercial analyses, project controlling, project documentation, management of external facility management service providers, rental contract management, tenant support, planning and monitoring of investments

Qualifications and experience

- You are in the advanced economic scientific studies with the focus on real estate, a successfully completed apprenticeship as a real estate agent is of advantage
- You show a high degree of initiative, team spirit, and enthusiasm. Further, you are flexible and an organizational talent
- You have a pronounced ability to communicate as well as a conceptual and analytical understanding
- You possess very good MS Office skills (esp. Excel) and good to very good English skills
